nuclear science & united nations

Our specially designed programme for Geneva and Lyon gives students an incredible opportunity to see the forefront of scientific nuclear research in Europe and explore the political history of the United Nations.

what will students do?

Students will take part in a tailored tour round the most exciting centre for scientific research in Europe today – CERN (The European Centre for Nuclear Research).

Students will also have the opportunity to learn about the work and history of the United Nations through exhibitions and tours while experiencing some of Europe's finest 20th century architecture in the Palais des Nations, home to the United Nations office at Geneva.

what will students learn?

Students will have a fantastic opportunity to see how their own studies relate to the most recent scientific discoveries. Visiting CERN is a unique experience enabling students to witness first hand Europe's leading nuclear research laboratories. As well as this, they will see the political history of a very different culture and explore the peaceful work the UN does today.
